PALAZZO VECCHIO
THE RED ROOM NEL IN BETTINO RICASOLI'S HOME

The Sala Rossa (Red Room) is located on the noble floor of Palazzo Vecchio. The room, of 19th Century taste, was made by the architect Martelli and together with the others on the same floor, were used as personal apartment of Bettino Ricasoli. It's now called Red Room because of the walls, entirely covered by damask silk of that colour, repeated also on all the furniture. The ceiling, a lowered cross vault imitation, with trompe l'oeil decorations in white, grey and beige, supported by plaster border of the same colour and gold plated finishing.
